

As predicted history was made today but who would have ever thought it would have been such an emphatic win.....for Europe! As they say in the homeland "Ya Beauty!"

For a while today things were not looking so rosy for us. For a brief moment the crowds were in full voice and for a split second there was genuine belief (when we were up in only one match) that a comeback was on. Thankfully for us this did not last and when Charley Hull crushed Creamer things looked good. It is so important to get that first point on the board.

My role today was to walk with Beany's group. As Captain Neumann said, singles are a different ball game with no other teammate by your side, so she made sure all singles matches had a familiar face with them. It was brilliant to be alongside Beany and Graeme and see them make history – again!

Without doubt the best story of the day was Charley asking Paula Creamer to sign a ball for her after she won. The next best story was Beany holing the putt that gave us the win. Hedwall will get the credit for retaining cup with her birdie putt against Wie at the last, but Beany was the one who sealed the deal with her half point against Gerina Pillar. Her hard fought par at the last with all the celebration going on in the back ground, officially gave us the win on American soil and boy were the celebrations fun. It felt like every European supporter there amassed behind the 18th green and if we sang "Ole, ole,ole" once, we sang it a thousand times. Great times and why not, this was a huge win for Europe against an American side who were very strong.

As I have previously said, the standard this week was impressive and if you weren't a fan of women's golf before, hopefully you are now. Also, a note out there to potential sponsors – get in on this action because it is so worth it. I agree that regular week to week events may not show the passion and emotion that the Solheim Cup brings out, but these players are world class and worth supporting. The more we support our top players now the better chance we have of encouraging others to follow suit.

As I write we are all in the locker room waiting to board the bus to go back to base for the real party! All the players are doing a press conference at the moment and I can assure you once we board the bus it will be a long night of good times. Yes, the players must be exhausted and all involved would be better served with a good nights rest before flying home tomorrow, but occasions like this happen once in a blue moon and we will all be up for a proper celebration into the wee hours of the morning.

Just had a sip out of the cup on the way home! This bus is positively jumping. Players are in the aisle dancing, others are drinking out of the cup and of course we have "Ole, ole,ole" anytime we can- awesome! This is one happy bunch of players.

It's 10:16pm we are not back at base yet but once we have showered and eaten something other than in liquid form there will be a party for the ages! There will be many sore heads tomorrow but it will all be worth it!

The Solheim Cup is women's golf at it's best and I hope some Scottish youngster has been watching this week and been inspired by Beany and the rest to make playing for Europe their goal. I have been fortunate enough to play in this phenomenal event and to be part of history today. Let's get some more Scots their next time in 2015....
